BEAR THIS IN MIND.

ACQUIRE HABIT OF SAVING.

Whether a man be rich or poor, there is for everyone in this life the lesson of self-denial to learn. The process of saving may be slow, but it is sure. The proper way is the systematic one by which individuals place regularly an amount who has his own business. To save one must have a definite, fixed method. The experience of others is a reliable guide board, whose friendly arms point to the building and loan association as a safe form for investment. The mainstay of building associations are wage earners, but professional and business men form quite a proportion of the membership. The best thing for young men or young women to do when they first begin to earn money for themselves is to join a building association and save a dollar or two every week from their salary, or as much
